NSA Declassification/Release Instructions on File.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Executive Secretary, National Security Council

SUBJECT: Atomic Energy Intelligence

REFERENCE: (a) Memorandum from Executive Secretary, NSC, to DCI dated 8 February 1950
(b) Report of the Ad Hoc Committee on Atomic Energy Intelligence dated 9 June 1950, transmitted to Executive Secretary, NSC, 13 June 1950

1. The Intelligence Advisory Committee has considered the Report of the Ad Hoc Committee on Atomic Energy Intelligence (Reference (b)). It concurs in general with the comments, conclusions, and recommendations.

2. Specific comments of the Intelligence Advisory Committee on the recommendations in the Report, together with an indication of action which can be taken immediately or in the near future, are set forth below. This matter will be kept under continuous study and will be carried on the agenda of the Intelligence Agencies.

RECOMMENDATION 1:

"That an overriding priority be assigned to the collection of atomic energy information."

Intelligence Advisory Committee Comment:

An "overriding" priority is not considered justified or practicable. It is agreed, however, that collection of atomic energy information should have as high a general priority in all collection agencies as any other targets.

Immediate Action:

Each collection agency will determine where extraneous duties are assigned high priority and interfere with the collection of atomic energy information. Such duties will then be eliminated or assigned a lower priority, as appropriate.

Further Action:

Central Intelligence Agency will develop an effective mechanism for the establishment of priorities within the Office of Special Operations and for the subsequent control and guidance of Central Intelligence Agency's field operations 25X1B6a in the scientific and technical fields.

RECOMMENDATION 4:

"That overt collection activities abroad be reorganized in order to assure effective exploitation of this source of information and that technical personnel from atomic energy intelligence producing agencies be assigned on a rotating basis to such collection activities."

Intelligence Advisory Committee Comment:

25X1A6a It is understood that this recommendation applies primarily to [redacted] and, to a lesser extent, other peripheral areas.

Immediate Action:

25X1A6a

Arrangements will be made by Central Intelligence Agency to assign additional technically qualified personnel from the intelligence producing agencies to [redacted] and such other places as appear to be indicated.

Steps will be taken by the appropriate agencies to minimize the delay in transmission of raw intelligence information from the field to the users in Washington.

25X1A6a

Further Action:

25X1A6a

It is recognized that coordination of intelligence activities [redacted] is still inadequate. Steps will be taken in Washington, under the leadership of Central Intelligence Agency, to clarify the responsibilities of the Director of Intelligence, [redacted] and other intelligence authorities [redacted]. All agencies [redacted] will be directed to support the Director fully in his coordinating activities.

25X1A6a
25X1A6a

It is expected that the forthcoming assignment of scientific attaches to various posts by the Department of State and additional Air Technical Liaison Officers to certain appropriate collection activities will result in improved overt collection of scientific information.

RECOMMENDATION 5:

"That AFSA activities be augmented immediately as has been repeatedly recommended including emphasis on obtaining all possible scientific and technical assistance in a high priority attempt to solve current and pressing problems."

25X1C4a

Immediate Action:

[redacted]

Further Action:

It is understood that certain proposals to increase substantially AFSA appropriations and personnel ceilings are under current consideration in the JCS. Further proposals will be made in USCIB.

RECOMMENDATION 6:

"That the control and administration of covert and overt operations abroad be clearly defined."

25X1C4a Immediate Action:

[Redacted]

Further Action:

Similar clarification is needed in occupied areas.

RECOMMENDATION 7:

"That direct and continuous consultation be directed between technical analysts and groups directly concerned with collection operations."

Immediate Action:

Steps are being taken in Central Intelligence Agency to effect such direct and continuous consultation.

RECOMMENDATION 8:

"That the pertinent National Security Council Intelligence Directives be consolidated and amended to effect active coordination of intelligence activities concerned with the national security, to simplify the present interlocking committee structure, and to eliminate the necessity for the unanimous consent procedure as currently practiced."

Intelligence Advisory Committee Comment:

In general, it is believed that the amendment of existing directives would not contribute materially to the solution of the problems raised in this paper. In certain cases and areas, steps will have to be taken, under the leadership of Central Intelligence Agency, to insure compliance with existing directives.

Where intelligence responsibilities are widely spread within the Government, a rather elaborate committee structure is considered inevitable and even desirable. The Intelligence Advisory Committee does not agree that the "unanimous consent procedure as currently practiced" should be eliminated, because provision has been made in every case for resolution of disagreements by higher authority. It is recognized, however, that a reluctance to resort to higher authority has to some extent frustrated clear-cut action and has to be guarded against.
